The Treaty of Versailles

Specific Objective: Analyze the aims and roles of world leaders in negotiating the terms of the Treaty of Versailles; Analyze the influence of Woodrow Wilson’s Fourteen Points; Analyze the causes and effects of U.S. rejection of the League of Nations.

The Fourteen Points

During World War I, U.S. President Woodrow Wilson drew up a proposal for postwar peace that was known as the Fourteen Points. It included:

- ___ general suggestions for encouraging peace, such as an end to secret treaties
- ___ specific recommendations for changing borders and creating new nations, based on the principle of national self-determination—allowing people to decide for themselves under what government they wished to live
- ___ a call for “a general association of nations” that would peacefully negotiate solutions to world conflicts, Wilson’s Fourteenth Point, which led to the creation of the League of Nations

Negotiating the Treaty of Versailles

The Fourteen Points were the basis for talks that led to the 1919 Treaty of Versailles.

- ___ The talks were attended by delegates from Allied and neutral nations.
- ___ Germany and its allies were not allowed to participate.
- ___ Most negotiations were made by the so-called Big Four: George Clemenceau, premier of France—wanted Germany to be punished; Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, premier of Italy—sought territory for Italy; David Lloyd George, prime minister of Great Britain—worked for compromise; Woodrow Wilson, U.S. president—had to abandon many of his Fourteen Points.

Terms of the Treaty

- ___ The League of Nations, an international peace organization, is established; Germany and Russia are excluded from membership.
- ___ Germany returns the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine to France, gives up its overseas colonies, reduces its army in size, is forbidden to buy or make weapons, and to have submarines or an air force, is assigned sole responsibility for the war, and must pay the Allies $33 billion in wartime reparations.

The United States Rejects the League of Nations

In November 1919, the U.S. Senate rejected the Treaty of Versailles. The League of Nations was the main sticking point. Some Americans were concerned that membership in the League would diminish the right of the United States to make its own decisions. More importantly, the treaty required each member nation to support the boundaries of other member nations—a requirement that many feared could lead to U.S. involvement in future European wars.
